Complaints

A complaint regarding a candidate's campaign should be directed to the CRO and the Political Committee. Any member of SAIT can forward his/her complaint to the Political Committee in accordance to procedures laid out by the Committee. To avoid malicious or frivolous complains, individuals/groups must ensure that there is sufficient evidence and provide all necessary details and events that occurred to prove that a candidate have violated the SAITSA's bylaws and policies, SAIT's code of conduct, and essentially the elections standards set by SAITSA.

Policies and Procedures will be issued demerit point(s). A demerit point is a mark made against the candidate's record for a fault or for misconduct.

The guidelines (next page) is a guide for both the candidates and the Political Committee. Points associated with an infraction may be reduced or increased by the Political Committee should they deem the adjustment necessary. Points for infractions that are not listed will be issued based on the severity of the violation and equated to an infraction that is similar in nature.

Candidates whose total is between 5 and 9 demerit points will be put up for review by the Political Committee and possibly disqualified from the elections. Candidates who receive a total of 10 or more points will be immediately disqualified from the elections.

Any discussions that occurred during a Political Committee's deliberation of a complaint are confidential. Refer to the Appeals: Elec-9 Policy should a candidate wish to appeal a decision made by the committee.

SAITSA Elections Penalty Guidelines

The following infractions are based on SAITSA's Elections Policies and Procedures and SAITSA's Elections Standards. Penalties associated with the infractions are based on the severity, long-term consequences and overall impact on the process of holding fair and open elections.
